Essential cookies

When essential cookies are enabled, essential cookies are kept to a minimum — a single first-party cookie plus short-lived Stripe cookies during checkout. These allow our website to deliver the best experience to you personally and give full access to all features including purchasing match tickets, viewing available product options and managing previous purchases. You can choose to remain signed in, making repeated visits to the website from the same device easier and quicker. Without opting to accept the essential cookie, we regret that the website will not function.

Also during the purchase of tickets, we use Stripe (https://stripe.com) as our payment provider and they will use essential, temporary cookies to allow the safe collection and processing of your payment. By consenting to essential cookies you are accepting the use of these short lived, session based cookies.

Optional cookies

We also provide the option to opt in to additional cookies. These additional cookies are used for analytical purposes and only collect information anonymously. We use Google Analytics to help provide insight into our website users to assist in developing enhancements and new features. These cookies are completely optional.
